Dear friends,

There have been some difficult planetary configurations and clusters and they could cause some explosive energies in our Solar system. There may be some solar flares and big solar storms and explosions happening soon. This would have some repercussions on Earth and so I thought that it is time again, to have a look at the cosmos and its situation.

As of today, April 21st 2011, Sun, Jupiter, Mars, Mercury and Venus are all conjoined together in the Zodiac sign of Pisces. Saturn is opposite in the sign of Virgo, Moon debilitated in Scorpio and Rahu and Ketu in Sagittarius and Gemini respectively.

This placement is causing some stiff opposition energies amongst the planets which could result in some great fires, explosions, earthquakes and even escalate some war situations. This is a very destructive positioning of the planets. The times are difficult for planet earth and some days could be even more dangerous. The dates anytime between now and June 30th should be watchful, with emphasis on May 17th, May 30th and June 30th. But these planetary forces will show their effects in times to come, and not necessarily just the above dates.

Now these types of planetary clusters have happened many times earlier, but this time it is different. First of all it is happening in the last of the zodiac sign, with Saturn in opposition. If we were to take the extra Saturnian planets into consideration, then Uranus is also in Pisces and Pluto is in Sagittarius with Rahu.

Uranus would create great magnetic forces which would result in huge waves, Tsunamis and storms. Pluto and Rahu together would cause mass loss of lives.

Jupiter moves on May 9th, which could bring some relief, and Rahu and Ketu move into Scorpio and Taurus respectively on June 7th this year. Mars will move away from Aries on June 13th. It is only after this, that there will be some relief from the impending dangers.

I would like to bring your attention to some very important factors that is also affecting planet earth. We all know that planet earth is rotating at its axis which is tilted at 23.5 degrees due to the precession of the equinoxes. The total surface area of earth is 510 million sq. kms, of which the total land surface is 149 million sq. kms and the total water surface is 361 million sq. kms.

The total mass of earth is 5.9742×10^{24} kgs.

The earth rotates at a speed of 1669.8 km/h. (measured at the equator) and revolves around the Sun at the speed of 108000 Km/h. The sun is about 26,000 light-years from the center of the Milky Way Galaxy. (The age of humanity is about 26000 years)

- Now, all this is going to change!

First of all, the mass of earth is not the same anymore. Humans have been digging the earth of essential minerals, metals and oil. The earth is becoming hollow from inside. The center of gravity is also not the same anymore, and the earth's axis has shifted! The gravitational force is also not going to be the same anymore as the earth's total mass has reduced. Thus we are witnessing these Tsunamis, storms and earthquakes. There are more catastrophes to follow. There will be great solar fires which will burn the Earth. The electro magnetic forces in our universe will affect the Earth in many ways not seen yet by mankind.

As per the law of physics, if the center of buoyancy becomes greater than the center of gravity, then the floating body will tilt and overturn. The earth is going through a similar phenomenon. The world will experience great changes on earth by way of changes in weather, geographical changes and shift of lands. Nature and the cosmos will try to balance itself by turning and twisting earth. Water will engulf and fill in lands which are becoming hollow from insides. At some places, the surface of the Earth will split open for the waters to enter and fill the void inside. So the land areas of earth will recede and waters will increase. All the oils and other liquids that is constantly being sucked out of earth's depths are creating huge voids and vacuums under the earth, thus generating collapsing forces due to loss of pressure in those areas. The earth's axis will tilt further and subsequently the latitudes and longitudes of all countries will change. The weather will change and reverse in many countries. Huge mountain ranges like the Himalayas and the Alps will slide lower and salinity of seas and oceans will decrease.

There will be a new face of Earth and many will in the years to come witness a new Earth, a new environment and the new age. God Himself will guide the whole process through so that mankind may live in peace and harmony. But right now, the situation is extremely precarious, and the planets are in disharmony. Everything has a cause and effect. Man has gone too far in his adventures with nature. Greed, envy, hatred and violence have created a very negative aura around planet Earth. But some spiritual energies are also being generated, and so God may decide to do something to save this situation. The coming month and a half will reveal many realities to humanity.

America will continue its hardships in economy and the government will face many challenges until November this year. Uncertain and wrong policies will make the situation worse. The country will go further in financial deficit due to misjudged actions and military expenses. The country's troubles are far from over.

India will start facing numerous challenges from November 2011 and will see many drastic changes within the next 3 years. The shape of the country will change in this time and there will be a new India from November 2014 onwards.

I have said this earlier, and am saying this again. Instead of sending rockets into space, countries should find ways for progression of humanity. Instead of developing nuclear weapons, countries should find peaceful solutions to the disputes in the world, and instead of trying out dangerous experiments like the big bang theory, people should have trust and faith in the 'big boss' – God.

The present age is called the Kali Yuga, or the Dark Age. But soon, there will be many changes in the world and the new age will set in. Our solar system is slowly moving into the center of the galaxy, where it will be exposed to a great and brilliant cosmic light, which would resemble that of a thousand suns! Then all darkness and ignorance will vanish from earth and humanity will be blessed with wisdom and enlightenment. Every person will realize their divine potential and there will be love and peace in the world. God has already made roadways towards that path for humanity and many millions and billions of people will follow the 'master' soon. By the end of this year 2011, people around the world will start recognizing that divine entity and one year after that, (end of 2012) the whole world will come to know of the 'divine master' and will throng to seek Him. The next 9 years thereafter, the foundation for the new age shall be laid by the divine master on earth.

God bless the world
